

After returning from a successful official Test Day at Spa Francorchamps in preparation for the 24h race scheduled at the Belgian track for the last weekend of the month, Andy Soucek is travelling to the US this week to compete in the SprintX Series as part of the Pirelli World Challenge next weekend.

It will be the debut race for the SprintX Series at Portland International Raceway, so Teams and Drivers have no previous experience at this track located in Oregon.

The Bentley Boys in the K-PAX car #9 are very much looking forward to the upcoming event, as their Bentley Continental GT3 has been performing strongly over the first races of the Season, which helped them clinch their first podium finish at the last event held at Lime Rock Park. Furthermore, Soucek and Parente are a very experienced driver pairing, which allows them to usually adapt to unknown tracks pretty quickly.

The schedule for the Portland event is as follows (all times CET):

Saturday: Qualifying 18:10h

Race 1 22:10h

Sunday : Race 2 23:25h

A live stream Will be availbale for all sessions at <http://stream.world-challenge.com>.
